ALMA MATER

I

Let us tune our hearts and voices
Every care defy;
Let us sing with one accord
Our praise to Hershey High.

II

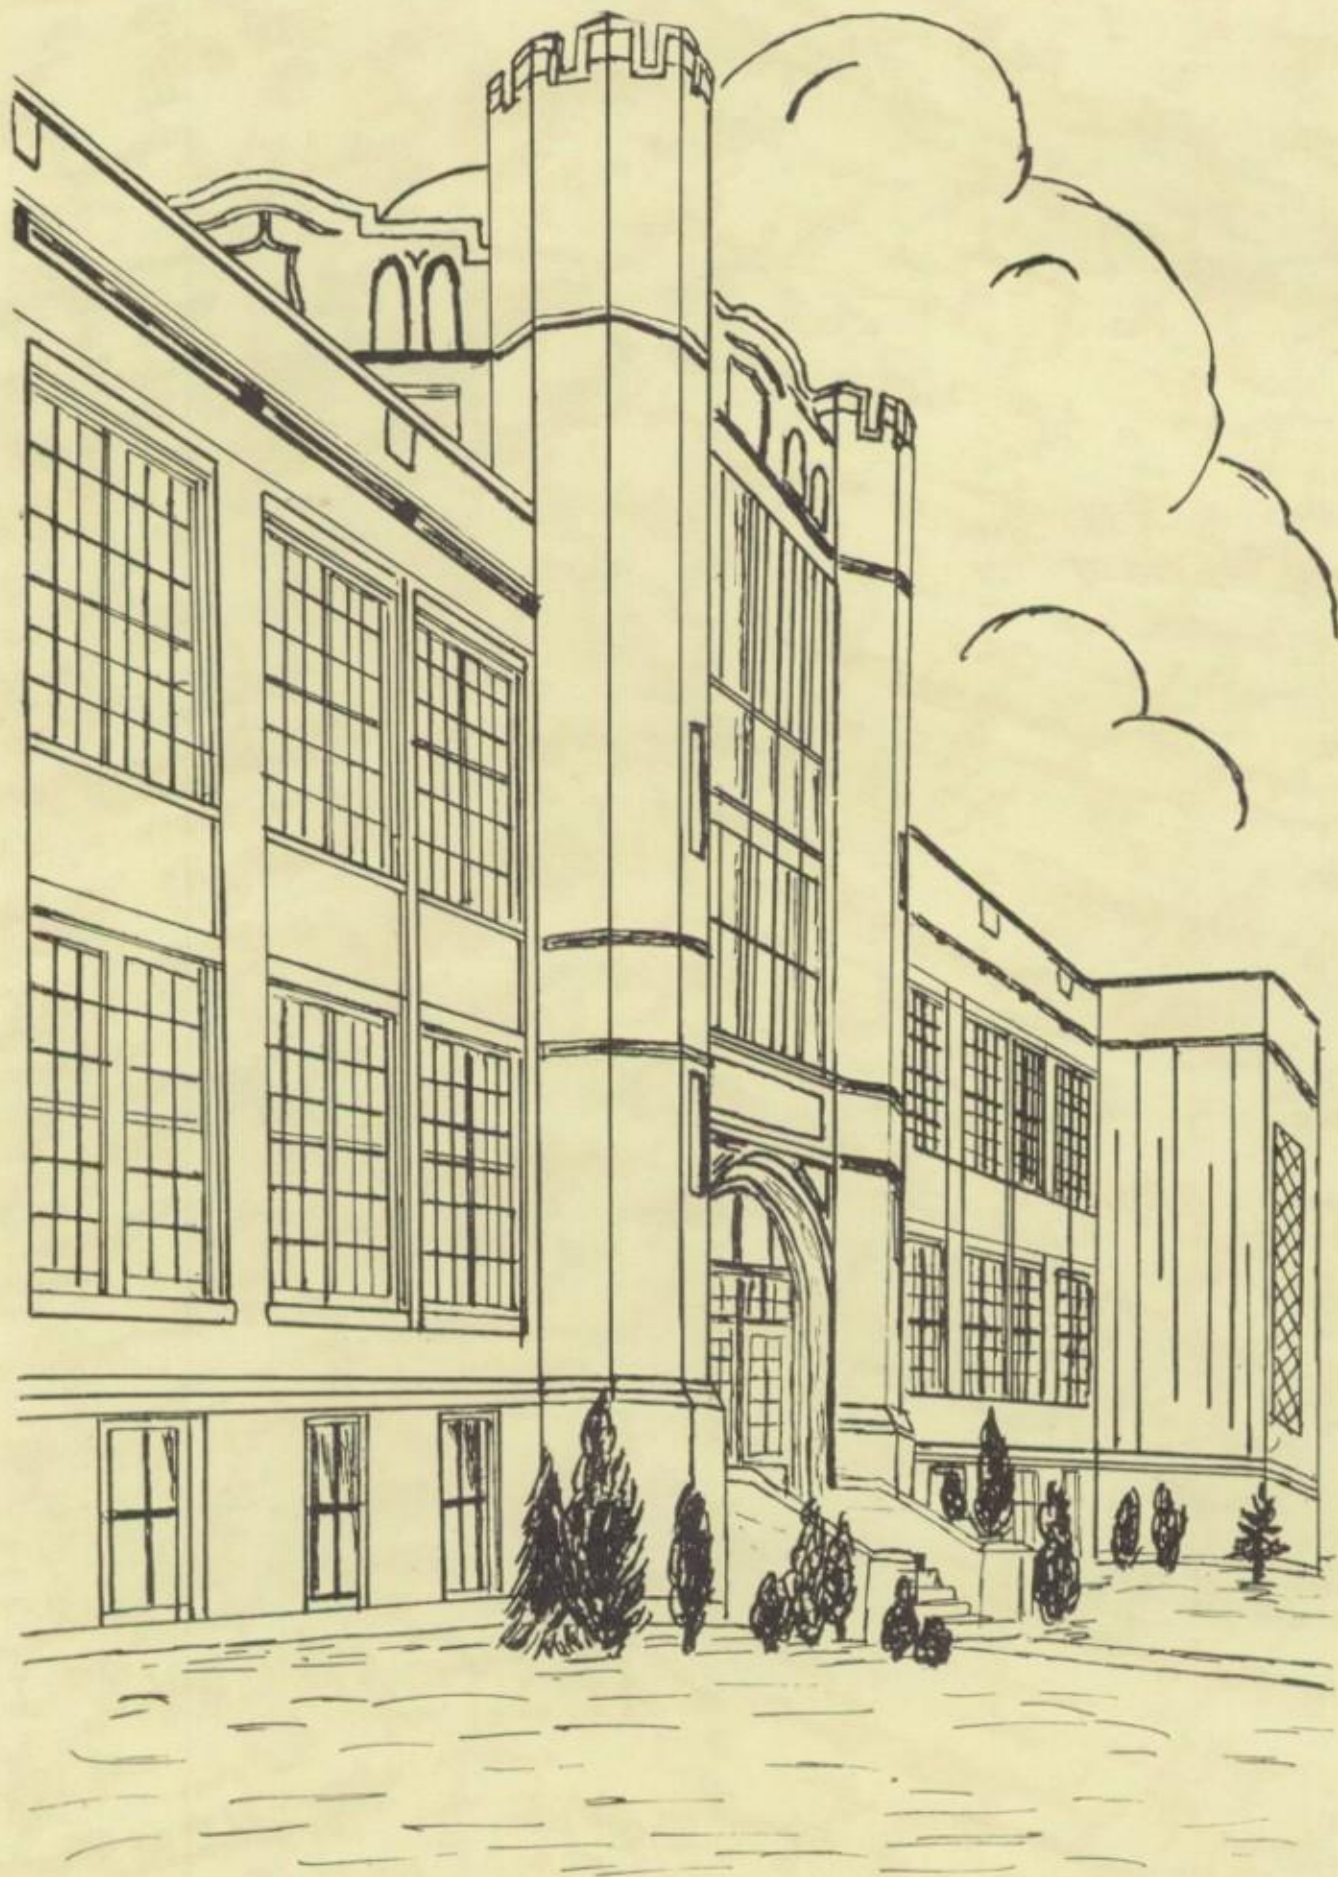

When in dust these walls are laid
And Time on wings shall fly,
Another throng shall breathe our song
In praise to Hershey High!

III

Then with joy our songs we'll bring
Swelling to the sky;
We'll all unite to shout and sing—
Long life to Hershey High!

Chorus—

Lift the chorus—speed it onward
Over hill and dale;
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hershey High, all hail!

FOREWORD

TO submerge from the world of prevalent gloom, to keep memories of "auld acquaintances" new and sparkling, and to guide our pens in reviewing experiences of the past four years, the staff of "The Choclatier" has adopted a merry Scottish theme. It symbolizes gaiety for the past high school days, loyalty to each other as citizens of the world, and buoyant hopes for our future.

The staff gives many thanks to the art editors. They have not only displayed talent, but spent much time and work in order to produce the artistry as shown throughout the book. The business workers must be commended for their endeavors to meet all financial obligations successfully. We cannot forget the eager advice given by the faculty advisers, Miss Hyland and Mr. Lane. They lent willing sympathetic ears to all the troubles encountered by the staff and sought remedies to dissolve them.

Hence, go forward, Choclatier! Bring naught but happiness to whoever may glance through your pages!

MESSAGE TO THE SENIORS

- To you who have now completed a very important part in the preparation for life, we extend this greeting. You have made friends, studied lessons, finished courses, and lived in our school life for twelve years. We congratulate you.

There are goals that you have set up for yourselves along the way. We hope that you have been able to attain some of them but not all, for if you have reached success in everything, you have aimed too low.

We hope that you will go out of these doors not only with a bit of paper called a diploma but with higher ideals, better citizenship, and a greater courage to face life with all its future problems. If this is true we have not failed you and you cannot fail us.

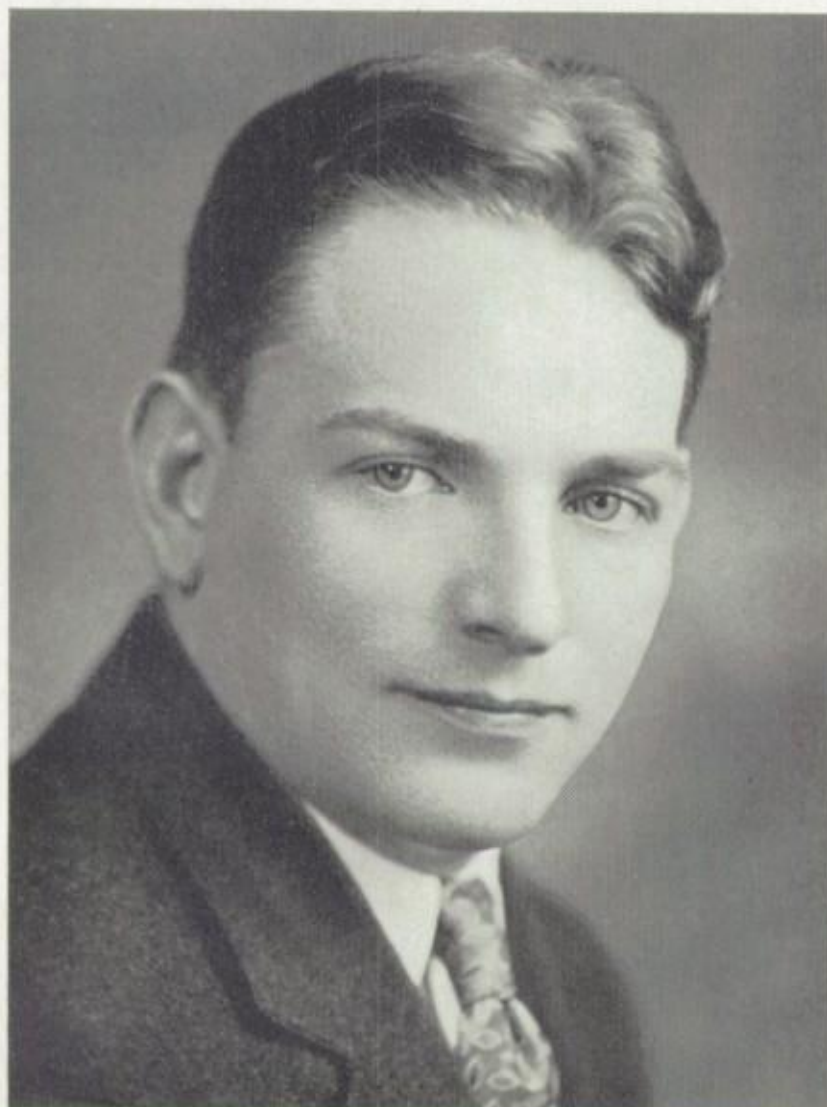

You had more opportunity than the average school affords but I know that you will be happy with me when I say that those who come after you will have even greater opportunity.

Next year the Derry Township Senior High School shall be in a new building. In order to give the pupils an enlarged opportunity, we are offering new courses with new opportunities for work and self-expression. You can rest assured that as the schools you attended were better than those your parents attended, so the school the future classes will attend will be an enrichment over what you have enjoyed. In fact it may be that the day is almost here when we can invite you back in case you should wish to come after your day's work is finished. The day for Adult Education has about arrived. Greater opportunities are awaiting all of us. New positions are sure to appear in the new day that is coming.

Our Board of Education will always be ready and anxious to do what is best for the young people of our community. In fact they hope with us that all of you may continue to stay young and learn daily as long as life and health last. May you as seniors be specially noted for this fine achievement.

Sincerely yours,

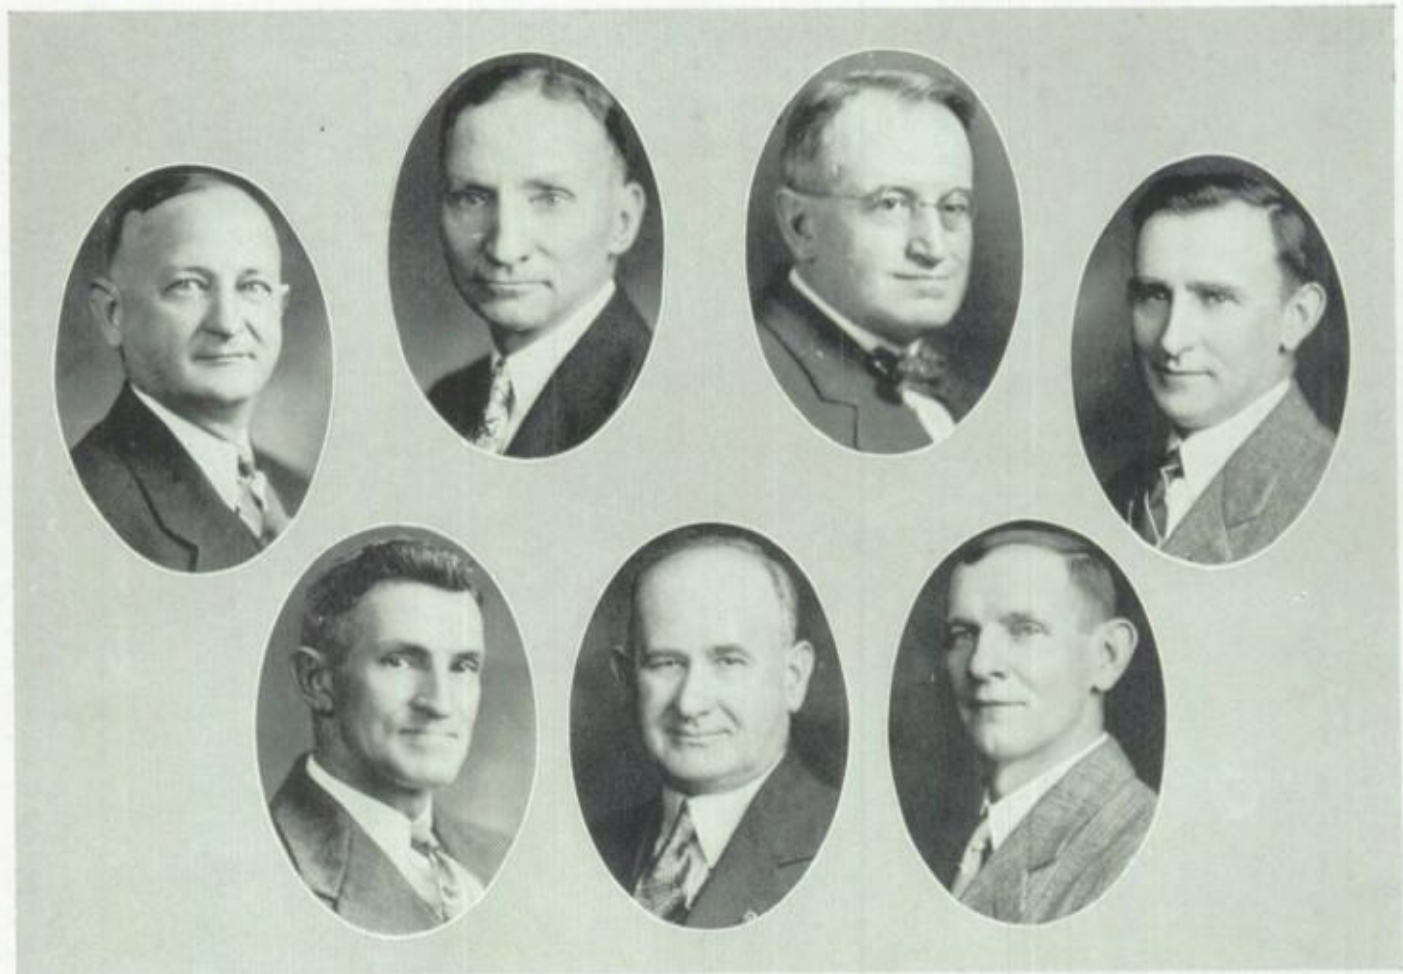

J. L. Baughen

DEDICATION

We, the Class of 1934, are happy to dedicate this edition of "The Choclatier" to a man who has been a real, living example of good sportsmanship, and who has shown untiring efforts and unbroken faith
in our school in victory or defeat—

• A recent journey into a textbook informed us that "a board of directors usually work without pay, and therefore must be composed of public spirited citizens who have the interest of the boys and girls at heart." This was not news to us, for we think our Directors were the inspiration for the statement. Since our last edition of "The Choclatier," there has been an election, but the count at the polls did not change the personnel of our Board, which fact tells a very significant story.

These seven men have been vested with the power to decide on all questions pertinent to our school system, such as, the expenditure of money and selection of teachers. The townspeople have chosen these men from all walks of life just as Addison and Steele did for the members of The Club in the "Spectator Papers." This choice is not just a happy coincidence. It is done so that we will have the benefit of various viewpoints and expressions of opinion in arbitrating on school problems.

There is one other duty—we cannot flatter ourselves to say that it is always a pleasure—that our Directors fulfill frequently, and just as frequently it passes unnoticed. Not only are these men the unseen power in our system, but they often manifest their interest by being present at our school activities and also by observing our class work. Their presence gives the students encouragement and an incentive to do better work.

This year has been of unusual significance because of the outstanding number of major policies to be decided, and the decisions made will shape our schools over a number of years in the future. Although the class of '34 will not be affected by the change, it wishes to express appreciation to the Board of Directors for past privileges and advantages and to wish a brilliant future for Hershey High.

• FACULTY

Good-Bye

We have grown, emanated, and expanded;
Onward through school we went.
Nary a thought to our winged days disbanded
Nary a thought to idle hours, now spent.

Up! Up! we groveled through darkness,
Seeking, demanding a luminous light
Which like a beacon from a far remoteness,
Would point to us the path of right.

Each day we strived to gain new knowledge,
From "buddy", friend, and teachers kind,
Each day we found the task impoverished,
Ah! happy hours we left behind!

Merry days are ending for us.
Stop to speak to foe or friend!
For soon, alas, night will draw nigh us,
And nevermore will there be OUR gang.

The Class Cruise

We started as Freshmen and how we rejoiced
To be given this honorable name
We felt even then, that superiority fad
And attempted to rise to fame.

As Sophomores we could be classed as a joke,
Still trying to make our own names
But decreed by fate, we had to wait
Until each one could shoulder his blame.

Quite rapidly we jumped to the Junior step
So eager for reaching our goal
We were called dignified which heightened our pride
And added more strength to the inmost soul.

At last when we reached our victory's end
We stopped to look around.
Oh, how we longed to retrace our steps
That had stamped and marked the ground.

But no! we must continue our search for that goal
That seems so endless to attain
Life's pleading and calling for workers and doers
So we must go on, and then on again.

• SENIORS

School Days

When we as freshmen entered school
We followed closely every rule,
And tried to do with all our might
The things we thought the teachers liked.

And when we'd to assembly go
We'd stay in line so straight, just so,
And when dismissal time came 'round
We'd leave our rooms without a sound.

When we as sophomores entered school
We didn't follow every rule
But tried and tried with all our might
To keep hidd'n from the teacher's sight.

And when we'd to assembly go
We didn't go so straight, just so,
But slid and ran with might and main,
Until we were stopped by Mr. Lane.

When we as juniors entered school
We tried to break up every rule
And tried to do with all our might
The things the teachers didn't like.

And when dismissal came at noon
It didn't come a bit too soon
For every day we made the line
At the cafeteria in record time.

When we as seniors entered school
We tried amending every rule
And tried to do with all our might
The little things we seniors liked.

Single file in the halls was a rule
That we loved to break in our last year of school
And coming to classes a few minutes late
Seemed to be the seniors' fate.

Now it's all over, we've all had our fun
But wish, to ourselves, it had only begun
And so with traces of tears in our eyes
We give Hershey High School reluctant good-byes.

Class History

FRESHMAN

- In the autumn of 1930 we landed on the northern coast of bonny Scotland. It was our duty to reach Edinburgh by an overland route. Our first obstacle was a castle at Squrr. At night our entire band was captured and placed within the grim walls of that edifice.

Dr. Baugher, our keeper, was kind enough to let us explore the entire castle. Few opened the heavy door, Extra Curricula. Those who did found smaller heavier doors labeled Debating, Orchestra, Football, and Basketball. Other rooms with lighter portals were explored by all. The one marked General Science proved most interesting with its many gadgets worked by physical forces.

We were prisoners in this castle until the early part of June. We had spent a fractional part of our lives there which would yield unforgettable results, attainable in no other way. As the drawbridge lowered, we ran out, once more on our way to Edinburgh.

- All went well until Cairn Gorm loomed ahead with its monstrous cave and its furnished rooms—relics of past royal splendor. Curious ones looked in and bid the rest follow which all did. As the last one entered, a huge rock fell into place and once more we were prisoners. We laughed at cares and investigated. To our surprise it contained many things similar to those of Squrr, but more advanced. Rooms with hangings labeled Clubs were opened timidly until delighted cries told that their contents were pleasing.

Our elected leader was Harvey Deitrich who helped us plan our escape after we investigated every dark nook. Several bold ones ventured into the cavern marked Broadcaster emerging with smiles of victory.

Spring came and one day during a heavy storm the imprisoning rock rolled away allowing us to pursue once more our long, uncompleted journey.

JUNIOR

- Our way grew rougher and harder to overcome causing several to drop at friendly villages along the way, hoping to catch up later. We stopped at Breadalbane to obtain supplies and encouragement. While there, winter descended in full blast and all took refuge in tiny huts. To pass the cheerless days we visited each other at regular intervals.

The inhabitants of the huts labeled Broadcaster, Debating, Tri-Hi-Y, Mixed Chorus, and the various clubs were indeed fortunate, for they possessed the roll of the greatest number of visitors. Under our leader, Glenn Eshelman, a merry winter was spent participating in various contests.

Finally, spring arrived. Our huts, crude but comfortable, had proved life savers of the best kind. Preparations were made for our departure. Sorrow was present as we said farewell to Breadalbane, to start on the hardest lap of our entire trip.

● THE CHOCLATIER 1934

SENIOR

- Nature deemed to help us at every step until Linlithgow was reached. We stopped to rest but found we could go no farther due to a war waging close by. Rival clans at arms were to be dreaded at any time, we were told. Glenn Eshelman, still our leader, bade us enter the town hall, built on a craig, and fortify ourselves.

One band, called Sigma Gamma, under the direction of Virginia Weaver, fortified the tower. "The Choclatier" under Sara Funghi's direction bolted doors on the lower floor. Tri-Hi-Y and Hi-Y under Margaret Mish and Mervin Lingle stood at windows, ready to fire upon the invaders. Carolyn Balsbaugh and her Broadcaster staff encamped in a tower to get all news first-hand. The senior football men—mighty heroes—defended the drawbridge. Doomed to stay there nine months we made the best of existing conditions. Traditional forms of entertainment were called forth to keep the courage of all from being submerged.

As warmer days approached, the warring clans ceased. One eventful day saw us marching—two by two—across the drawbridge of that old town hall while the villagers cheered. As a slight fog lifted, the towers of Edinburgh could be discerned in the distance. Our four year march was ended—our goal was attained. Farewell, Scotland! for at Edinburgh all would set sail on various ships for unknown ports of the entire world.—Farewell.

Junior Class History

- Here we are, our right foot placed firmly on the third rung, marked juniors, on the Ladder of High School Education, while our left foot is hesitantly stepping up to the fourth, marked seniors.

Our Ladder, so far, is firmly built of three rungs, and each one has behind it, a year of hard, earnest work.

As freshmen, we were not so outstanding, as we were yet a young and green group, standing in the shadows cast by the light shining around the upper classmen. We tried for sports, but got no further than the scrub teams. We set our aims high, and so strengthened the first rung, before we started out for our next one.

In our sophomore year, we came back less in number, with a little more experience, and more eager than ever to participate in school functions. We began to make a name for ourselves in the various sports, particularly in basketball. The class was organized, thus securing many new privileges for us. It was this class that introduced the new practice of class dues in the sophomore year.

Now we are almost at the close of the junior year. In athletics especially, we have made a name for ourselves. We have taken part in organizations and in the publishing of the school paper. The juniors proudly acclaim the honor of being the first class to wear the school seal, which they display on their rings and pins. As the members look back, they find that this third year has contained some of the most pleasant of their high school days.

With three years of preparation behind us, we feel properly equipped to take up the duties and responsibilities which are placed on the shoulders of seniors. We eagerly look forward to our last year; and, when we reach the fourth rung on our Ladder, we are all determined that we shall come up to the standards that we are expected to reach.

Sophomore Class History

- The present sophomore class is composed of nearly two hundred students, who are proud to be loyal subjects of their Alma Mater, Hershey High School.

Last year as freshmen, green as the upper classmen claimed we were, the members of '36 took their places in the high school, and with high hopes and ideals began to make a name for themselves in school activities.

As sophomores, the members of our class have organized. Many boys have accepted the opportunities of the various vocational courses and are now learning a trade. The class has been well represented in sports, musical programs, dramatics, and almost all other curricular and extra-curricular organizations.

It is the ambition of the present sophomores to strive to live up to the standards they have set and to be loyal to their Alma Mater.

Freshman Class History

- The freshman class of 1933-34 has finally reached the gate marking the end of its first year of high school. The students have been divided into classes according to the course they are taking. Some are taking the vocational, some the commercial, and others the academic course.

The class has been represented in almost all of the school activities. Two of its members led the magazine drive this year to victory. One of the boys met such success in his first year of football that he is wearing a coveted "H", and they have many other promising players. The class is also represented in the Mixed Chorus, Band, Broadcaster, Orchestra, and in various clubs. Some of its members are quite proficient in the Junior Debating Club. The class has also put on interesting programs in assembly.

With the above activities and hard work in the classrooms the freshman class feels as though it has spent a worthwhile year and is looking forward to next year when its members shall be sophomores.

•ACTIVITIES

Club Activities

- Our school curriculum would seem incomplete and unfinished if we had to give up our many club activities. Each year a survey is made of the student body to determine just where the interests are centered. Then if sufficient demand is made for a particular type of club, it can usually be organized under the supervision of a teacher who also has an interest in that field of activity. The majority of these clubs meet in school time during the fifty-minute club periods on Wednesday and Friday. However, there are some groups which spend many hours in work—even though it is pleasant work—outside the regular routine, for example, the Mixed Chorus, Tri-Hi-Y, Hi-Y, Sigma Gamma, Patrol Club, and others. This same fact is also very applicable to all dramatic activities. Strangely enough, this labor is done very willingly in spite of the fact that it is frequently as tedious and difficult as class-work. The chief difference is that students have chosen to do it.

A visit to one or all of these organizations would convince anyone that things are truly accomplished in them. In many cases pupils acquire skill and knowledge that they could not conveniently secure in an ordinary curriculum. As you look through the following pages, you will notice the wide variety of fields entered by these enterprising young Americans. Most of the students belong to at least two clubs.

The old theory that the extra activities or “fads and frills” detract from the mastery of the three R’s has been blasted, because the average student benefits from his additional knowledge and contacts. Our clubs present golden opportunities to all those who find time and ambition to join them.

• A consultation with Mr. Webster would reveal that staff is a word of many meanings. It can be a stick carried for support in walking, or for defense; sometimes it is the frame on which music is written; other times it is used to denote a building material used in place of stone; and then of course it frequently means a group of assistants who carry out the plans of a leader, manager, or editor. The first and last of these definitions seem to explain the group on the opposite page. These students nominated by the Senior Council and elected by the members of the senior class are the assistants to the editor, Sara Funghi. This method of filling the positions on the staff is plausible because the class has by years of association learned to know the abilities of its individuals. Then, since the publication of this annual is the event second only to Commencement to every high school student, he will do his bit to see that the right people are on the staff.

You may wonder just what the first definition has to do with the Choclatier. Perhaps (?) you have noticed that the theme is Scottish, and could you imagine the famous Scotsman, Harry Lauder, without his stick? Therefore, we have to have a staff for two reasons: our theme is set in the Land of the Thistle and Tartans and—well, how could there be a year book without a staff?

• As nine years loom in the background, the Hershey Broadcaster, monthly publication of Hershey High School, assumes a position of honor. It has been awarded this year three distinctive honors—first class honor rating in school print shop publications by the National Scholastic Press Association and the Pennsylvania School Press Association, and second place by the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. In addition to this it is an active member in the Quill and Scroll, the national honorary society for high school journalists.

Question: "Resolved that the United States should adopt the essential features of the British system of radio control and operation."

• Debating is one of the activities of Hershey High School still supported by ambitious students desiring practice in public speaking. This year pupils from seventh to ninth grades formed a junior club in which they were trained to later assume the duties of varsity debaters. The varsity debaters failed, however, to obtain the cup awarded by the Patriot and The Evening News, but were at least successful in accumulating more points than any of the other teams in the Dauphin-Lancaster County Debating League. A critic judge this season rendered the decisions in the debates instead of the old system in which three judges gave the verdict. The following table shows the results of the league:

Elizabethtown	5	269½
Hershey	1	280¾

Sigma Gamma

- The senior girls have united their efforts in an endeavor to learn to associate with each other and to mingle with people; thus we have the Sigma Gamma.

The organization is divided into eight groups. Each one sponsors a meeting once during the year at the home of one of the girls in the group. These affairs are simple and informal, insuring a good time to every girl. They usually consist of refreshments followed by a few games. Many are content to discuss or converse about school problems.

Its motto, "The Elevator to Success Is Not Running; Take the Stairs," reveals the lofty ideals which the girls are striving to attain through work. This attitude is encouraged by the advisers, Miss Clemens and Miss Royer.

Each year the girls are rewarded for their faithfulness to the organization by being permitted to buy either a charm or a pin. The Sigma Gamma purchases these at reduced prices.

"A Lucky Break"

• On April 17 and 18 "A Lucky Break", a three-act farce by Zelda Sears, was produced by alternating casts chosen from the senior class.

After an absence of twenty years, John Bruce returns to the Connecticut village of his boyhood where he is beset on all sides by friends asking favors.

Suspecting that his money is the source of his popularity, he permits a rumor that he has lost his fortune in Wall Street to go unchecked, believing that this will show his friends in their true colors. It does; he finds them all sympathetic and loyal. Even Benny Ketcham, who is developing "pep and personality" to become a "super-salesman," proves himself to be a real person and unconsciously shows Bruce how to obtain the factory site he desires at a lower figure.

The story is brought to a climax when Tommy receives $10,000 to decorate the university, elopes supposedly with Nora, since these two were feigning a romance, to keep the true love affair a secret, because Mrs. Mullet disapproves of Tommy as Claudia's suitor. But Nora makes her appearance and everyone learns that it was not Nora but Claudia who eloped with Tommy. Mrs. Mullet learns that love can alter a career. Mr. Bruce falls in love with Nora and the curtain closes on a scene of supreme joy and happiness.

The Ghost of Lollypop Bay

- "The Ghost of Lollypop Bay," one of Charles Wakefield Cadman's operettas in two acts, was presented by members of the Mixed Chorus with a double cast.

Miss Jemima Steel (a spinster because of circumstances rather than choice) has established a summer school for girls on the shore of Lollypop Bay. Professor Alvin Flint (a bashful bachelor) has established a similar school for boys on the opposite side of the lake. Social relations between camps are very restricted, but Professor Flint and his boys are accustomed to call on Miss Steel and her girls in a body. Dinah, the colored maid, declares she has seen a ghost. This suggests to Mary, Midge, and Molly an idea for enlivening matters when the boys come. So a masquerade is planned. But Dinah, eager to break up this camp on account of the desire to return to her Marcus, had previously made the pretense of seeing a ghost to prepare the way for her own masquerade in ghostly attire. It was she who was seen by Miss Steel, but Mary masquerading at the same time does not know this, nor does Dinah know of Mary's disguise.

Marcus, anxious to comfort his Dinah, cause "she's sech gud comfortin' when she's scairt," dons a ghostly attire. Excitedly these three ghosts clash into Miss Steel and Professor Flint and the girls and boys.

Professor Flint finds Miss Steel "sech gud comfortin' when she's scairt" also and so proposes marriage. Miss Steel accepts and the two schools combine making it a co-educational school.

Mixed Chorus

• There are very few clubs or bodies of people that are more versatile than the Mixed Chorus. This group renders musicals both for school occasions and community services. Its largest work of art was the operetta; then came many others including the Christmas Cantata, its part in the school pageant, and the hymns sung for the Hershey Community Services in the Community Building.

This assemblage of senior high students is the greatest ever obtained in the history of the Hershey Schools, consisting of one hundred and forty voices. Every member is proud to be ranked in the chorus and is extremely attentive to the wishes of his director, Miss Bigham.

The club convenes before and after school which means a sacrifice of time to many, yet this is no drawback to those sturdy vocalists. Its aim is to produce a chorus which will come forth victorious in the state contest to be held this spring.

Orchestra

• There are frequent occasions in school activities when an orchestra is greatly appreciated. At times such as between acts in plays, at debates, at Christmas and other programs, there is nothing more suitable than its music. On all these occasions in our school career, this band of musicians lent their talent loyally, and therefore deserve to share in the success of these enterprises.

A large part of any body is its leadership; here Miss Esther G. Bigham must be credited. Her qualities of musical ability and thoroughness endowed the group of young players.

The practices, held every week during club periods, supplemented by extra violin drill given by Mr. Klauss, helped to fit the orchestra for its multiform duties so ably performed about the school.

Band

• The Band of Hershey High is a growing organization and yearly becomes more and more essential to the high school at the football games as well as on other occasions which need some means of arousing enthusiasm. Each year a larger number of students wish to participate in the band until there are now fifty-three members in this sturdy squad.

This year the Band under the direction of Mr. Brenneman will enter the Pennsylvania Music League Contest held at Hershey. Last year the band entered the same contest but failed to win the award.

This organization practices once a week under the supervision of Mr. Brenneman. Much time must be devoted to practice since many players are inexperienced and thus require much personal attention. However, the mental picture of this group, preceding the football team after a successful game and playing a stirring march, ought to heighten the spirit of any person who dares to doubt the efficiency of the Band.

Tri-Hi-Y

- The work of the Y. M. C. A. enters into the lives of the girls in the junior and senior classes of Hershey High School through the Tri-Hi-Y organization. This is purely in accordance with other Y. M. C. A. work which attempts to raise the moral and religious standards among its members.

A hilarious start was given this year by a Hallowe'en party which served as an official initiation of new members. Hair-ribbons and dolls the next day indicated which girls were newly admitted to the organization. The annual Fun Frolic followed, the proceeds of which brought a much needed radio, which was presented to the high school for use in the auditorium. At Christmas a needy family in the community was aided through the donations of the club members.

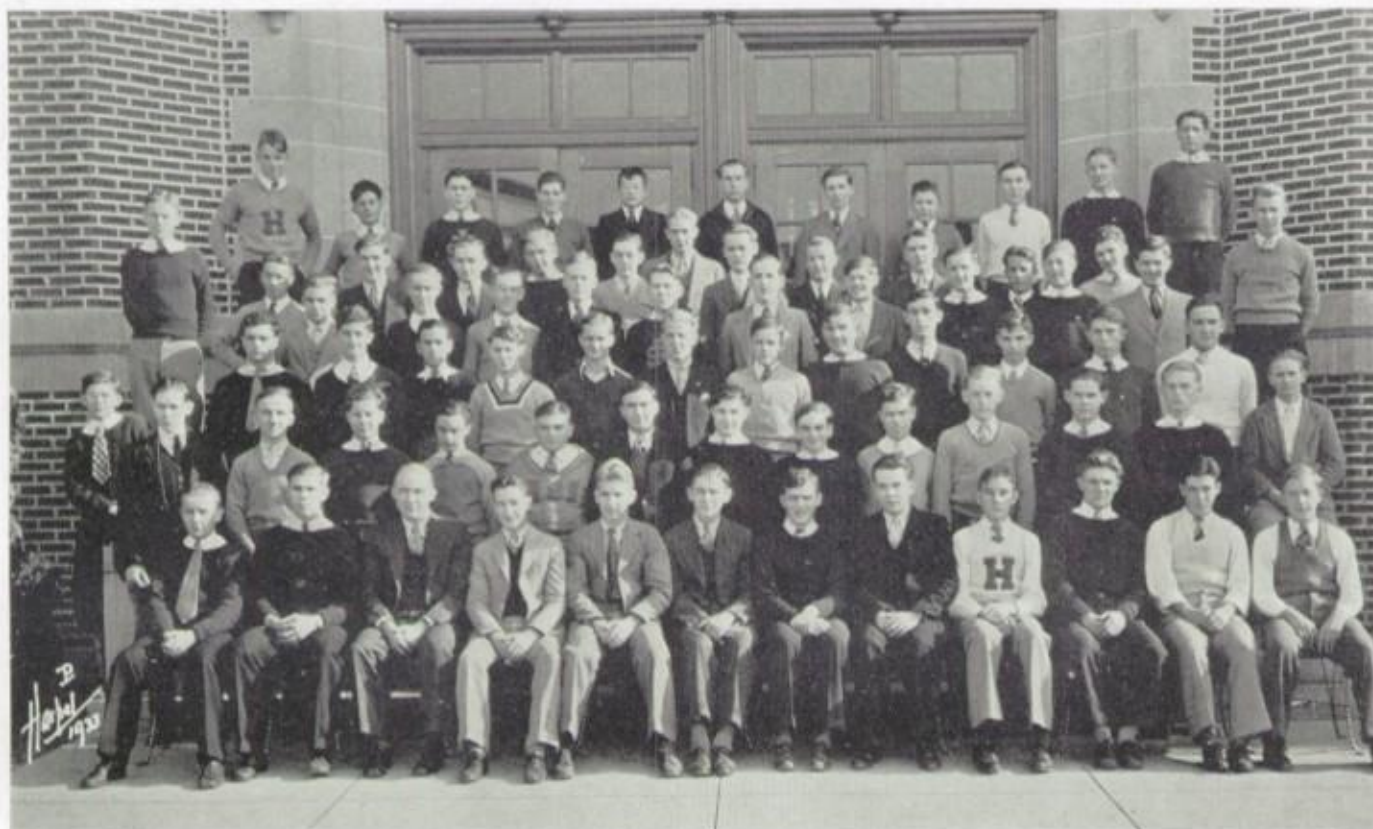

In the beginning of this year fifty girls enrolled for the Bible Study Contest. Seven local women presided in turn at the meetings and led the discussions. An examination covering the subject, "Achieving Emotional Control", completed this course, which, with lively discussion concerning varied social problems at regular meetings accomplishes the real purpose of the club.

Other events during the year were hikes and attendance at meetings of Tri-Hi-Y girls from several districts held in various places.

This class passes on to the succeeding one the torch which we hope you will bear, high as a symbol of this organization.

PURPOSE: To create, maintain, and extend throughout the school and community, high standards of Christian character.

SLOGAN: Pure words, pure thoughts, pure deeds.

Hi-Y

• The Hi-Y had an outstanding season this year. When the call was given for new members, the boys of the junior and senior classes, overflowed Mr. Seibert's room. So a large classroom in the Vocational School was used for the meetings. At these sessions free discussion by all the members on moral and other problems was encouraged. Sometimes food was served which was very well received. At the Father-Son Banquet, held in the Inn, the boys discussed the mutual situation with their fathers. Besides this annual feature, the group sponsored assembly programs and planned meetings with the Tri-Hi-Y.

Concerning the nature of the organization, the Hi-Y Club is a national group with a strong state organization. It was founded for junior and senior boys in high school who are willing to subscribe to its platform of "clean speech, clean scholarship, clean sports, and clean living," and are desirous of sincerely furthering these principles. Every school term, officers are elected who serve for that year. The local organization was begun in 1929.

School Patrol

- This active organization consists of a large number of junior high school students interested in maintaining a "safety-first" standard for their school.

Every morning at 8:10 the school patrol can be seen keeping a vigilant eye over grade school children (and seniors who persist in "jay-walking"). They remain at their posts until 8:30 and again resume duty at 3:15 to direct traffic.

It is one of the hardest working clubs in the school. For their perseverance in all kinds of weather, these trafficmen receive rewards at the end of each year. Anyone credited with three years of service gets a gold medal from the Palmyra Automobile Club. Boys credited with either one or two years of service get a badge.

An interesting feature about the club is its court system of judging offenders who do not obey the traffic rules. An officer is appointed judge with the remaining club members acting as jurymen. They judge and sentence the guilty person who generally has a choice of penalties.

The Student Council

• For several years there has been an unexpressed idea of starting, in a conservative way, a form of student government. Last year a group of representatives elected by the homerooms took the first steps in this direction by forming a Student Council. This organization continued to grow and this year developed into quite an active group. Suggestions for the improvement of conditions in the school were brought before them and discussed. Then each representative took the message back to his homeroom in the form of a plea or a challenge. Drives were made for less tardiness, more cleanliness regarding the disposal of paper, better passage through the halls, and other matters pertinent to the welfare of the school.

A major project completed by the Student Council was a hand-book to be published at the end of this year. However, the separation of the junior and senior high schools will necessitate many revisions in the material before it is printed. This group of students have filled a need long felt in the school and are to be commended for their loyalty and untiring work during the year.

Did We Do Our Best?

Did we do our best
In upholding those things
Which Hershey High cherishes so dear?
Ah! yes! we did this;
Tho' we didn't succeed
We put forth an effort to try.

Did we do our best
To set forth for our friends
Examples of lives that were true?
Ah! yes! we did this
With hearts that were brave
And courageous as in days gone by.

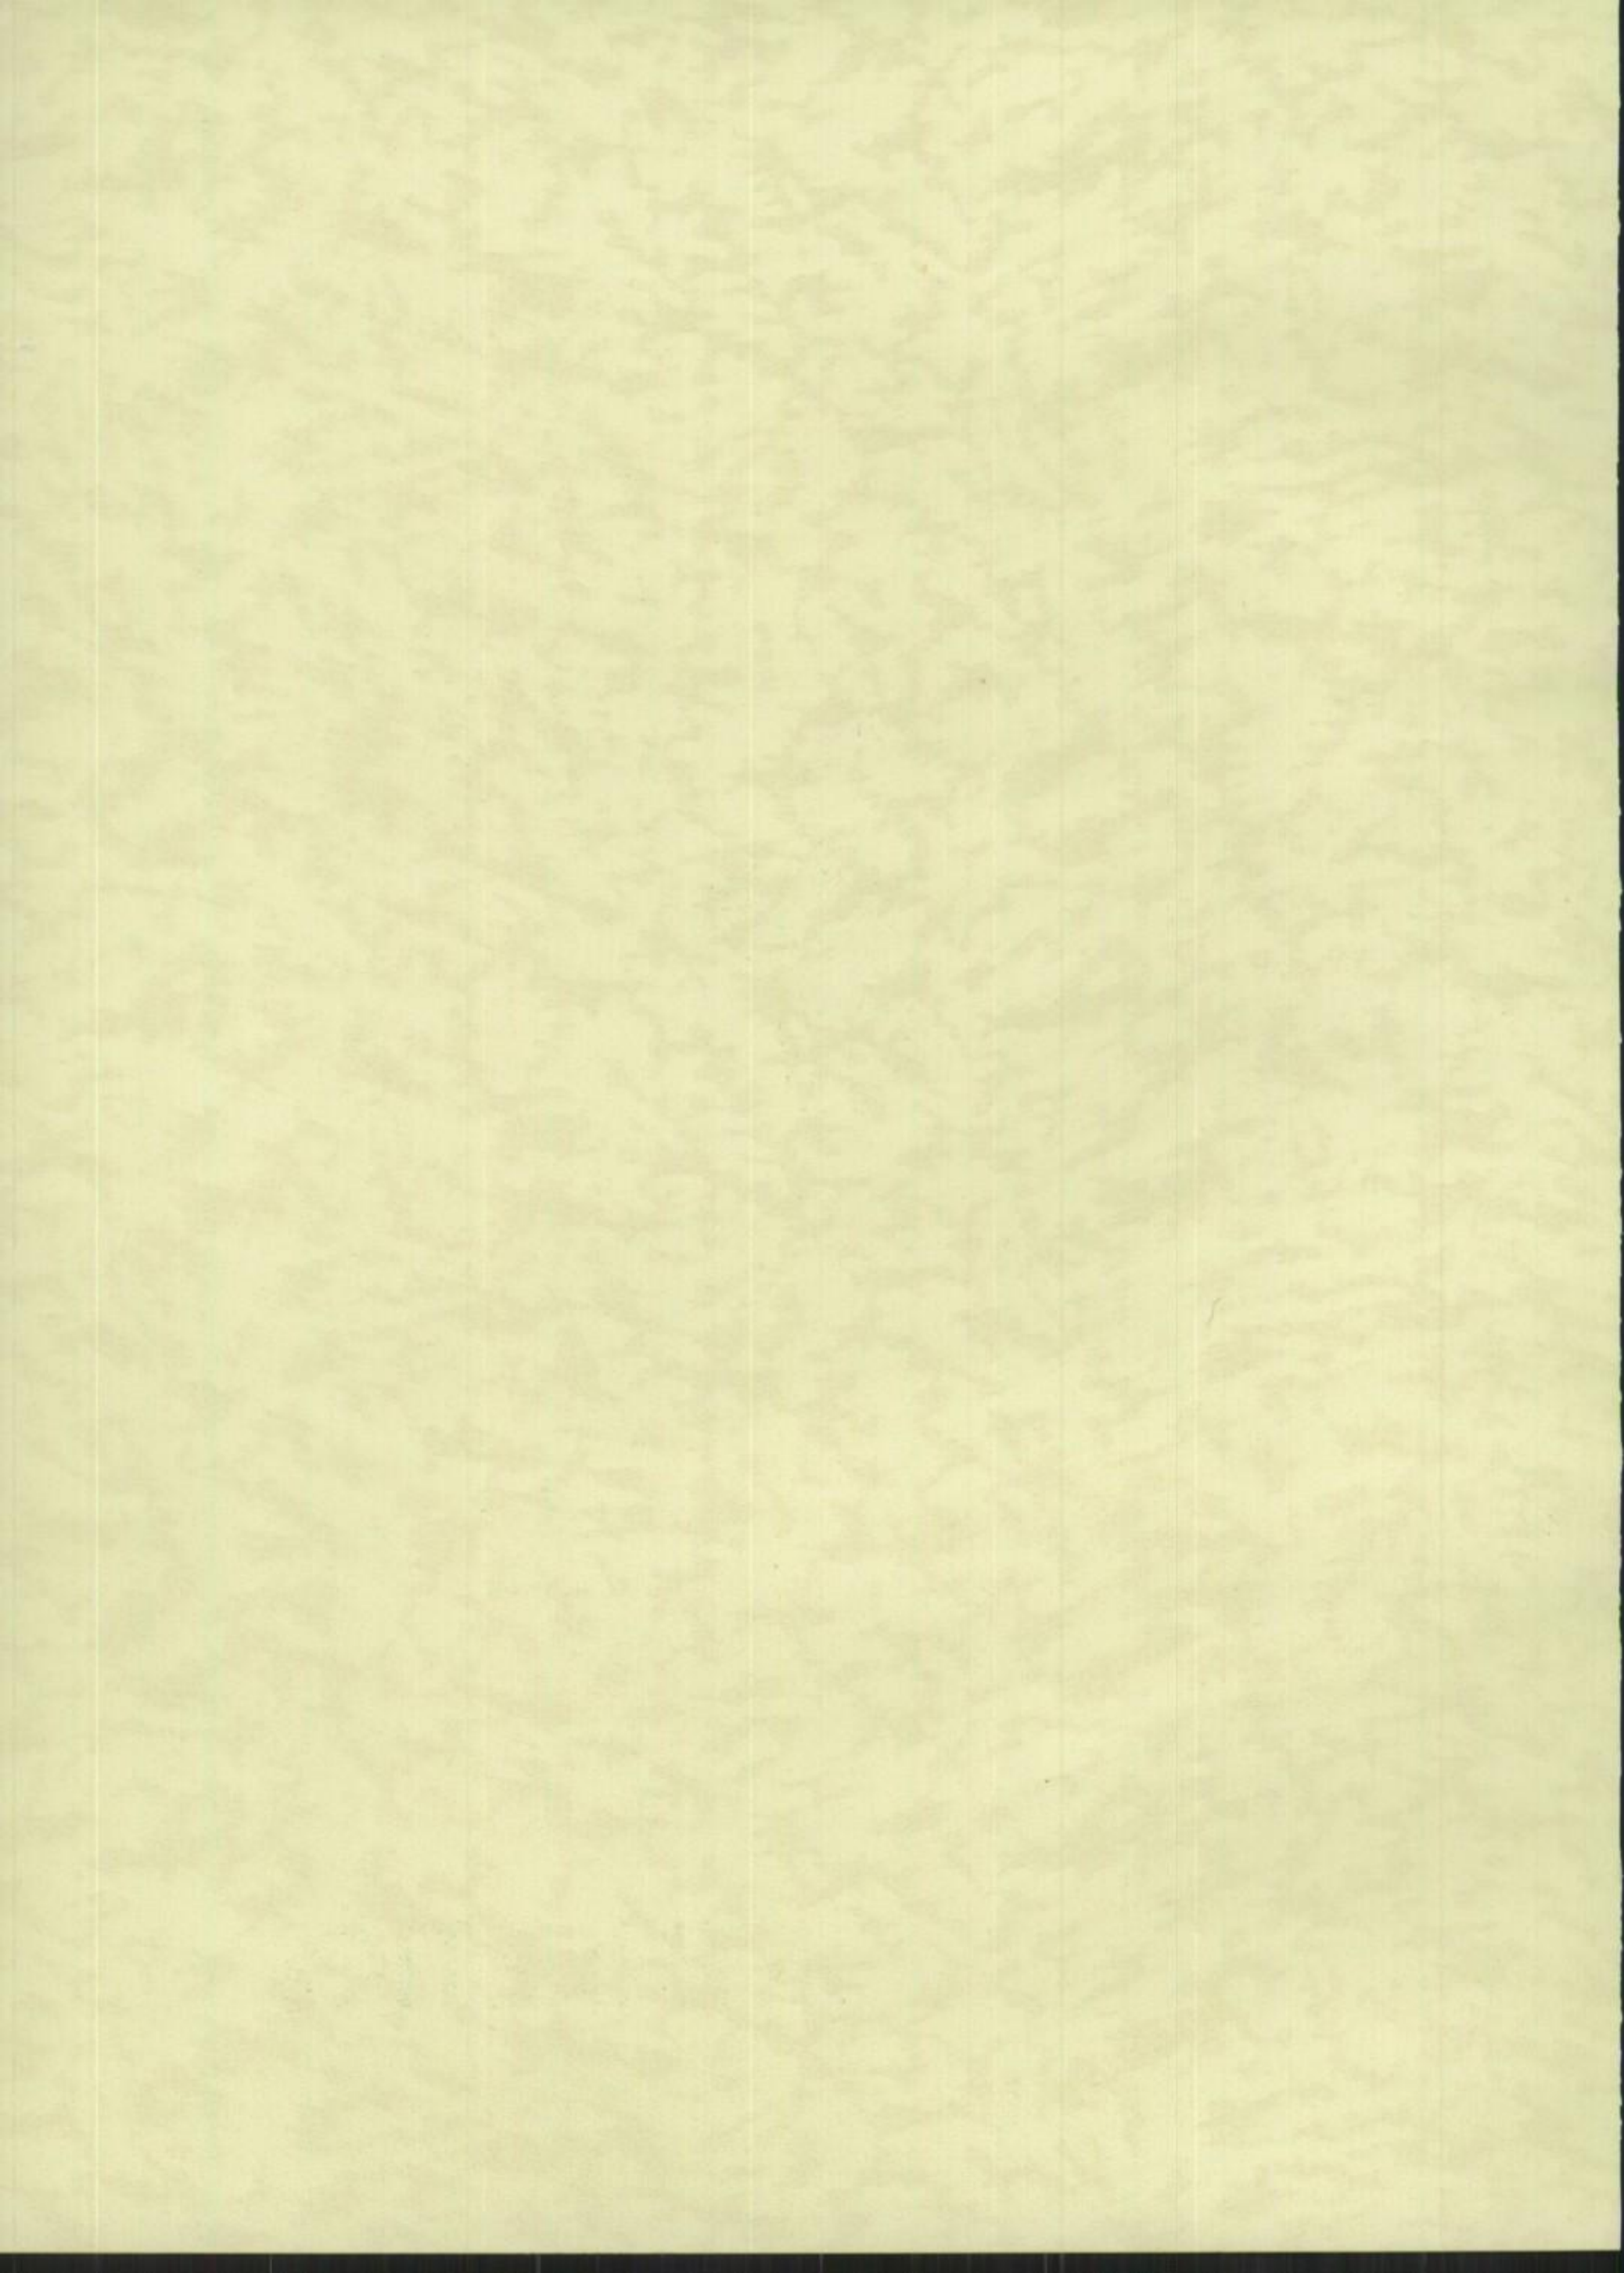

Did we do our best
To please all our friends
And help them in times of their need?
Ah! yes! we were true
With hearts that were brave
So none could pass us by.

Did we do our best
To live clean lives
As God on high would desire?
Ah! yes! we can say
Though we all had our faults
But we had our own prices to pay.

And so as we leave
Our school realm behind
Will we be of use in this world?
Ah! yes! we are told
For we hear life calling
And so we are ready to go.

• ATHLETICS

Athletic Association

- This year the Athletic Association elected its officers by a different method than was used in previous years. Instead of having the student body nominate the candidates, the Athletic Council nominated them and the student body voted for the officers.

As usual, by paying the small required fee, the members were privileged to attend all business meetings and discuss problems of the Association. Games could be attended at reduced rates. The fees were used to purchase new equipment for our seasonal sports.

OFFICERS

President	Richard Ziegler	Secretary	Sara Funghi
Vice-President	Howard Baum	Treasurer	Mervin Lingle
Director of Athletics			A. O. Brittain
Director of Girls' Athletics			C. E. Miesse
Financial Adviser			R. E. Hovis

First Row: Grace Curry, Esta Black, Vera Miller; Second Row: Michael Pestelek, John Tuck, Luke Eber-sole, Capt.

Cheerleaders

- Sizz-boom-bang! Don't be alarmed. It is only the cheerleaders bringing a word of greeting to the team. What team? Any team from the first football game of the season down to the last track meet.

Instead of having a mere handful of three, this year there are six semi-contortionists, three boys and three girls, who have enough "pep" and "live-wire" in them to enthuse the whole student body (including the faculty) at the approach of any game.

Many times when our team was downcast or had its backbone slightly bent, this group of hearty "yellers" changed the disheartened tension and filled the players with new vigor. They are the boosters of the school. They represent hope from which all victories spring.

Football

• With the call of football resounding in their ears, a large number of eager boys turned out for early practice, under the tutorship of A. O. Brittain. Handicapped by the fact that not one varsity man remained from last year's team, Coach Brittain immediately started the task of developing a smooth working football team.

Out of this group of inexperienced material, a first team was finally moulded which was slated to oppose Lancaster Catholic High School, our opening rival. In this game the boys made a fine showing and as a result were victorious to the tune of 13-0. However, from that point on the Trojans went into a slump and were not able to free themselves until they had tasted defeat at the hands of five successive teams. This streak was then broken when Carlisle High School was held to a 6-6 tie. The two last games again spelled defeat and the final one was especially bitter, being administered by our ancient rival Hummelstown. This game was closely contested throughout, with our boys seemingly having the edge for the entire four quarters, only to be nosed out by the scant margin of one point.

We commend the team of 1933, not only upon completing the hardest schedule ever played by a Hershey High School football team, but also upon the fine sportsmanship displayed throughout the season and the Trojan-like spirit in tasting defeat.

Junior Varsity

• This group of boys played through an entire schedule of nineteen games and although they did not fare so well, nevertheless, they received some very valuable experience. Most of this squad saw action in every game and should have profited from each one as they were usually "stacked-up" against older and more seasoned players. However, unsuccessful as they were in league competition, they proved their superiority over outside teams as they twice conquered the "J. V's" from Hummelstown and the Industrial School, and split fifty-fifty with the Carlisle scrubs.

Because seniors were ineligible to play on the Junior Varsity, this entire squad of players was made up of juniors, sophomores, and freshmen, and will be available for berths on the future varsity teams of our school.

Basketball

• Hail to the first Trojan basketball team to ever represent our school in the Central Pennsylvania Basketball League! These boys which made up one of the fastest teams ever produced at Hershey played through the hardest schedule ever assigned to a Hershey quintet. In view of the fact that they were admitted to the Central Pennsylvania League it was necessary that they play teams which had been chosen from schools whose student bodies were two or three times larger than that of the local institution. However, this team made a very favorable impression on all of its opponents and gave warning that future Hershey teams may not be classed as "set-ups."

Incidentally, since Reading High School was the runner-up for the Pennsylvania State Championship, it may be interesting to know that the Hershey High defeated the strong Reading quintet on Reading's home floor in their second meeting of the regular league schedule.

Baseball

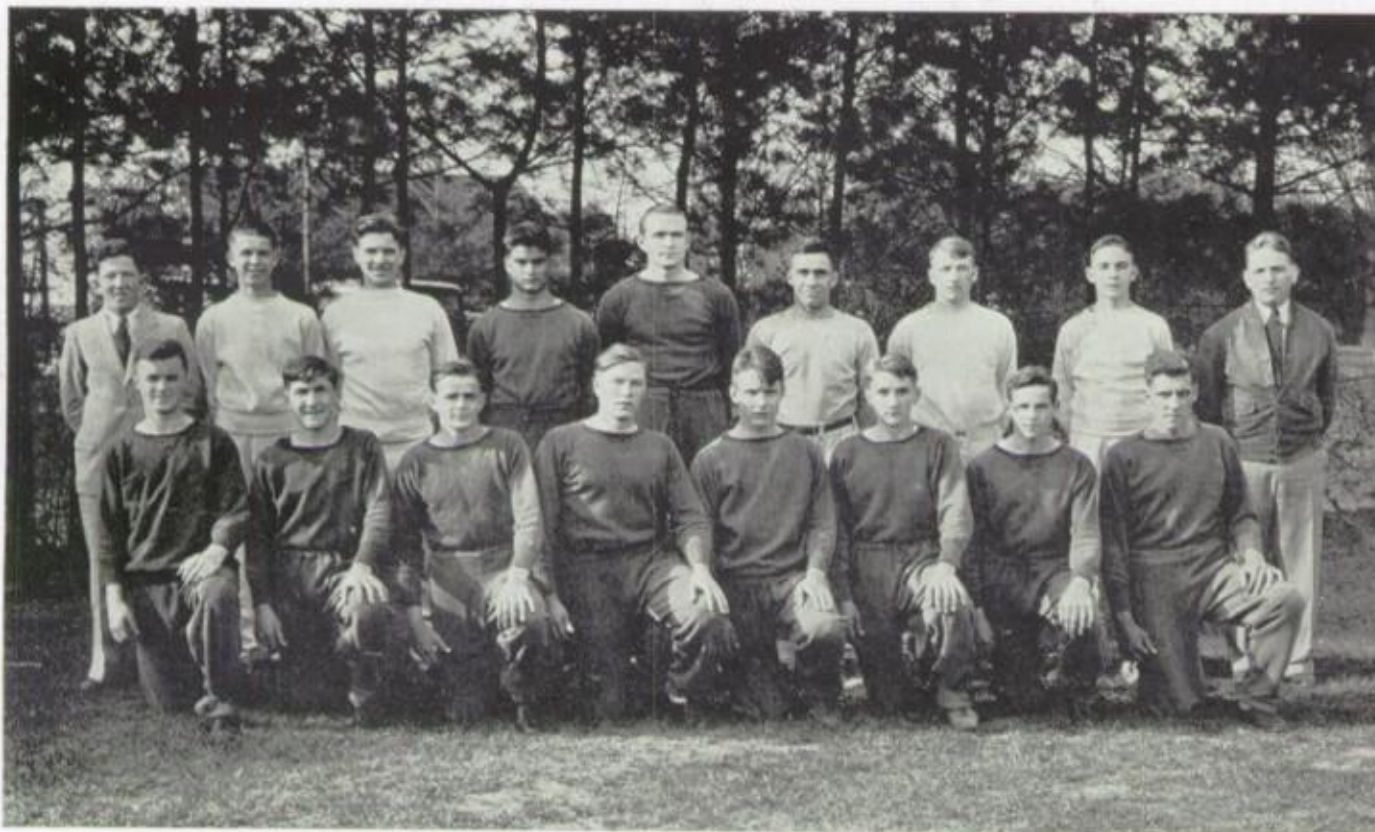

- With the return of warm weather the familiar sound of "play ball" again drew our attention to the well-known "diamond."

A large number of candidates turned out for early practice and found that R. W. Young had been assigned the coaching duties for the coming season. His appointment was received with much enthusiasm, and the boys immediately started training in earnest.

Although the infield and outfield was composed of mostly veteran men, the pitching staff was rather inexperienced, and therefore, was quite liberal to the opposition regarding the collecting of hits. However, the boys all played fine ball and in several games they, too, proved that they were capable of doing some hard hitting.

Although there are several promising "rookies" who did not graduate last year, they will be unable to exhibit their ability this season, due to the fact that baseball will be discontinued at Hershey High School because of the lack of spirit and financial support on the part of the students.

Track

- When the call was issued for track candidates, Coach Brittain was greeted with probably the largest number of boys ever to try out for this sport. These boys were carefully trained and watched under the "eagle-eye" of the coach until finally the best performers were selected and began to specialize in their particular events.

As there were only four seniors on the squad, prospects for this year's team are very good. All of the boys took part in every meet in which the high school was entered, and thus gained some very valuable experience. Those meets in which Hershey participated are as follows: Dual meet with Hummelstown; three-way meet with Steelton and Mechanicsburg; Shippensburg State College Invitation Meet; District Meet at Harrisburg; three-way meet with Lebanon and John Harris; Lebanon High School Invitation Meet.

Tennis

- With the advent of warm weather and the discontinuation of baseball, Hershey High School adopted tennis as the running mate to track for spring athletics. This year marked the first time that Hershey had ever competed with other schools in this sport, but from the enthusiasm shown among the male students when this announcement was made by Coaches Brittain and Young our local school should be represented by a strong team.

To introduce this sport and to insure strong competition, the coaching staff arranged for our school to be one of the contenders for the Inter-County Scholastic Tennis League championship. This league is composed of teams from Dauphin and Lancaster Counties: Elizabethtown, Patton Trade, Manheim, and Hershey. Each team is to play six matches and the winner to be decided by the number of individual matches won. Although our book goes to the press before the league is finished, the fine showing Hershey has made thus far gives indications that they are out to win the championship. The winning team will receive a plaque with the names of the players on it. There will also be a singles tournament after the league is finished to decide the individual champion.

Girls' Athletics

- This year's Athletic Senate functioned satisfactorily under the supervision of Charlotte E. Miesse, Director of Girls' Athletics.

The freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior classes each had two representatives, selected by the students, to take charge of the girls' activities of the school. From this group of eight girls the officers were elected.

The various sports were carried on during their specific seasons, and managers were chosen for each activity. The following took charge of their respective duties and in so doing, received points for their efforts:

Anna Lafferty	Hiking	Alice Schell	Basketball
Vera Miller	Volley Ball	Sara Schlegel	Baseball
Evelyn Slessor	Dancing	Grace Curry	Track
	Helen Funghi	Archery Games

Points were also received for attending practices, being on a champion team, making the teams, and being a captain of a team.

A record of all the points earned by the girls is kept from year to year and awards given at the end of each school term. A blazer is the highest award any person may succeed in winning and it is given to a graduating member, who receives the approximate number of points required. It is possible to earn three hundred points a year and a letter is given to the student earning six hundred points. However, those students with letters received from varsity basketball in former years, are credited with six hundred points, therefore, making it possible for the blazer to be awarded this year.

Insignias are given to girls who attend the required number of practices and meetings during one school year.

Interest was aroused by the organization of teams which participated in tournaments. Plaques with the names of the team and its members were received by the winning teams. These plaques will be placed in the high school gymnasium.

• At the annual dinner for the graduates which was held at the Park Clubhouse on June 9, 1933, the above-mentioned officers were elected. These four executives have carried on under the usual handicaps the activities recently revived in the Association. In the fall they sponsored a play called "This Thing Called Love" produced by the Lebanon Dramatic Club. The annual Christmas dance, held in the social room of the Community Club, was well attended. In February "Henry's Wedding" a musical farce was produced using local talent. Plans are being considered for a public card party and also for the climactic event of the year—the banquet. It is no easy task to keep spirit alive and active when an organization grows to the size of this one and when the members are so widely scattered. However, if this "Choclatier" falls in the hands of any alumni, we hope it will take them back to their own school days in Hershey High and thus revive that latent loyalty that we know is still hiding in some little section of their hearts.

If there are any changes to be made in the listing of the following names and addresses, we will be glad to make them if you will communicate with the secretary: Miss Clara Hess, Hershey, Pennsylvania.

Castle of Days to Come Class Prophecy '34

- The drawbridge lowered to meet the Senior class as it neared the famous Scottish Castle, "Bonnie Highland."

The new alumni males stepped aside in their usual chivalrous manner allowing the sweet girl graduates to swoop in on the romantic object of their journey.

Probably wearied by the tedious journey and the constant dazzle of the castle's beauties, one of these brave "exploresses," dreaming of the romantic days when such castles were built, unconsciously separated herself from the party. In a daze she leaned on a beautiful bas-relief panel. To her surprise it yielded and completely swallowed her. Inside she found such a maze of winding halls and closets as only the feminine imagination can conjure. However, we can trust even her sub-conscious impression of the things she read on those sombre and mysteriously lighted walls, because we have faithfully recorded them for the benefit of all.

Pulling forth one of the projecting marble stones, she found lying within a package of concealed papers. Tearing off the cord that bound them tightly together, her eyes stared in wonder as she read a prophecy of people, of her own friends, her Hershey High School classmates! Reading on, her eyes stopped in amazement when she read that the "Universal" would be starring, ten years later, Jeanne Brinser as their leading lady; and here it was—in black and white—that Robert Hoffman would be head of the Banking Corporation in New York City. Carolyn Balsbaugh, with her productive talent, would she really be Editor-in-Chief of the Chicago Record? Oh! This was all too good to be true!

But the "exploress" had a longing desire to keep on reading. On and on she unravelled the parchment. Will wonders ever cease? Who would have thought that Mary Morrison, that attractive brown-eyed girl, would be a woman reformer? That's exactly what she'll be according to these manuscripts. But the "exploress" was not surprised to find that Wilfred Baugher would be a football coach. According to this prophecy, he will be recognized as "Pop" Warner's successor in the football world. Pauline Spangler, our noted debater, will be giving daily talks over the radio on world economics. Evelyn Slesser will join Wilfred's profession and become a famous girls' basketball coach. But that was the end of the sheet. Where was the next one? Is this where the mysterious writer ceased? What will become of the rest of the class of 1934?

Downcast with the thought of her joy and entertainment ending so soon, she turned around to view the massive sculptural work. What was that sign on the wall to her left? Pivoting she ran to the spot where she read these words: "Know ye all men by these traits." It was beautifully carved on a stone which seemed to rock. Pulling it forth she found a small golden chest. She broke the lock with a piece of iron she found nearby. What! It couldn't be a continuation of the first pile of prophecies! It was! Swiftly she tore apart the papers and began to read. Well, this was a surprise. June Keyser is to be chosen as bathing beauty in a beauty contest to be held in Florida. Harry Wagner, who was our paper carrier will become circulation manager of the New York Times; and Harvey Deitrich, our faithful class treasurer will be the treasurer of the General Electric Company. My! What glorious futures! Could you feature Dorothy Graybill as a member of the Board of Censors of Pennsylvania? This will be her future occupation. Vague ideas were given heretofore that Teresa Risser should be a dental hygienist. But no—Madame Prophecy will have Teresa as the President's dietician. Charles Miller, our advertising manager, shall now become a famous draftsman. The Metropolitan Museum will, ten years hence, exhibit Edith Shope's splendid works of art. Speaking of Metropolitan, Geraldine Stahler, will be the new Metropolitan opera star.

What ever has become of Donald Hipps? He will become Speaker of the House of Representatives. Coach (Fred) Hancock will be mentor of the famous Chicago Bears. Fred wants his men to give signals in French; so James Brooks is to be the head of their French class.

The "exploress" then recalled to mind the days, having just past, when all these pupils were daily toiling to some definite end. So far they were all decreed to turn out successfully. Would the rest of the class prove to be America's most outstanding leaders? This was all so exciting and interesting. So Russel Hershberger will be director of a corporation of Ford dealers. And was it really true that Ruth Fureman and Edith Koons would go into business together as beauty specialists?

"Anna Lafferty," says Madame Prophecy, "will be the next famous artist to receive the Nobel Prize, getting many of her ideas from this Scottish Castle."

Mark Weist and Marcus Wampler are going in business together as professional carpenters. Madame Prophecy surely found a variety of tasks for the futures of the members of the Senior class. Who would ever think that Margaret Mish would be the headliner in the stage presentation called "Come Up to See Me Sometime" at the Hershey Theater? or that Oliver Smeltzer and Maurice Miller would be entering the business world together as private secretaries for two members of the President's cabinet?

All this was so amazing that the "exploress" continued in the suspense of not knowing what or who might be next.

She knew the prophecy would say that Eva Halterman will be selected the most accurate and fastest typist transcribing one hundred and fifty words a minute; and that Mervin Lingle, the well-known high school printer, will ten years later organize a paper press of his own. It really was hard to believe that Oscar Adams would become a noted mathematics professor, but it was so decreed and thus it should be.

Well, was this the end of another sheet? Where could be the next continuation? But at that moment the young "exploress" began to wonder just where she was and why her friends had not found her. Perhaps they had already set sail for America!

Rushing to the large panel which had swallowed her, she flung it forth and hurried to the entrance of this massive castle. As she neared the place, she heard loud voices. She was so positive she recognized some of those superior voices. Maybe after all she had caught the Senior Class just in time. So it was, for standing on the front steps, bidding farewell to its most worthy guides was the Senior Class.

"Oh, wait, wait," shouted the young "exploress," "I have news for all of you. I've found your future prophecies."

A hush quickly swept over the large group as the daring "exploress" told of her exciting adventures and discoveries.

It was an hour later when this group made its first attempt to leave. When it did, all were thankful that they chose this trip instead of the common trip to Washington.

Once again the drawbridge was raised after the Senior Class of 1934 had marched over it. But always will that class hold in fond memories this most beautiful castle which concealed the happy future of the class of '34.

The Will of the Class of 1934

To the Honorable Faculty Members, frisking Juniors, foolish Sophomores, and hopeless Freshmen:

We, the seniors of the Hershey High School, in the County of Dauphin, in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, one of the United States of America, residing where Granada Avenue curves off on a tangent to meet Ceylon Avenue, convene with you on this glorious occasion to make known to you, to the best of our knowledge, before leaving this large institution of learning to go into the wide, cruel world that awaits us, our last Will and Testament and thereby regarding all last pills and pepsodents made heretofore as null and void; of all our properties whether real or imaginary, which we have possessed, did possess, or do hope to possess, we now disperse, dispose of, and assign unto as follows:

- Item I. To the Board of Education we leave our best wishes and kind regards for their untiring efforts to further good schools in Derry Township.
- Item II. To M. S. Hershey we bestow all our thanks and gratitude for the many school facilities which have been so vital to our all around comfort and development.
- Item III. To our class advisers we leave our sincere thanks and appreciation for all they have done for us.
- Item IV. To the underclassmen, we instruct and direct, that we be laid away decently in the fond memories of our Alma Mater.
We bequeath the following beneficiaries, the Seniors' most prized talents.
- Item V. We will and bequeath Regina Pronio's ability to tickle the ivories, not the ribs, to Gladys Spancake.
- Item VI. To the class of '35 we bestow our prominent seats in assembly. Do not mar those seats; as for our senior dignity, may you uphold it as befitting seniors.
- Item VII. To Margaret Berarde we bequeath the experience and refuting ability of Marion Hohenstein.
- Item VIII. To the future Latin students we leave our Latin books with the translations written above the lines.
- Item IX. Gratefully Elsie Wilson leaves behind her high marks for special use on Dorothy Weaver's report card.
- Item X. We will and bequeath to the naive Freshmen our skillful art in bluffing in class, but keeping in mind not to make a habit of it; for the teachers are getting rather skeptical.
- Item XI. Clair Flower's ability as business manager of the Broadcaster Staff we bequeath to Howard Baum. "Hobby," honor and cherish this position as much as Clair did.
- Item XII. To all future school mates we bequeath our sincere hopes for the abolition of home work and for the privilege of eating during school hours.
- Item XIII. To Richard Mullikin we bestow Ray Goudy's red sweater so that "Dick" may be as outstanding with the girls as Ray was.
- Item XIV. Amos Jenkins' attractive looks and glances we bequeath to William Irish.
- Item XV. Kenneth King's boisterous laughter we will and bequeath to Merle Seavers so that next year's class may inherit a little silliness.
- Item XVI. We will to Robert Miller, Richard Ziegler's smo-o-o-o-thness with admonishments to control this quality to a state of reasonable use.

THE CHOCLATIER 1934 ●

Item XVII. Glenn Eshleman's dancing ability we bequeath to Earle Houser.

Item XVIII. To Merritt Ail we will Max Hess's height.

Item XIX. Sara Laudermilch's lyric ability we will to Helen Gerth.

Item XX. To the teachers, we bequeath all the experiences they have had in order to learn from us the qualities of a true Senior Class.

Item XXI. Gladys Kauffman's red hair we will to Lillian Gallagher, in the hope that she will take care of these locks as well as Gladys did.

Item XXII. All bits of paper, pencil stubs, and other impedimenta, forgotten in our hurry to leave, we bequeath to the Junior High.

In testimony, whereof, we, the Class of 1934, the testators of this generous will, set our hands and seal, this First day of June, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred thirty-four.

Signed, sealed, published, and declared by said testators as their last Will and Testament who have hereunto subscribed their names at the request of the class as witnesses in the presence of each other.

THE SERVICING OF SCHOOL ANNUALS

is just as important a factor to us as the printing of them. The many unknown details which "pop" up daily are entirely too much for any one member of the staff to shoulder, so that today many schools in this section are relying upon our Mr. Charles Esser whose long experience in this field, has helped many staffs. • His service in building annuals within their budgets has enabled a number of schools this year to continue their publications without lowering their standards. We not only help you to produce your book at a moderate price, but also plan it so that your book is above the average • We appreciate the opportunity to produce this annual and wish to acknowledge the excellent cooperation received from the members of the staff.
